

Simple and sleek

Tailored Constructions knows how to optimise storage space without minimising modern kitchen style

THE MAIN design considerations for the kitchen were to have large, practical work areas that did not hamper the overall style aesthetic. A kitchen that would suit entertaining was also an important element of the design brief.

This was done by making the open kitchen easily accessible from the living space while distinguishing the kitchen area from the living room with additions of stainless steel. The barstools placed under the generous workbench provide a social element to the kitchen, allowing the space to be both functional and entertaining.

Briefed by the owner to have a modern look with an abundance of practical storage space, Tailored Constructions optimised a sleek and polished look by defining the area with strong lines and ample hidden storage facilities for minimal kitchen clutter. The range of storage cabinets does not interfere with the style of the kitchen, but rather subtly works with the overall environment.
